Queen's University Alumni Association \(QUAA\)

The past month has been an exciting one for the QUAA!

As I mentioned in the March Newsletter, the application and selection process for the 2024-26 QUAA President was underway. I am pleased to share that the President Selection Committee, chaired by EVP, Volunteer Recruitment and Recognition Lisa Hood, Artsci'04, is sharing this announcement:

"It is with great pleasure and confidence that I have the privilege to announce that the next volunteer President of the Queen's University Alumni Association is Allison Williams, Artsci'09!

Allison has served on the QUAA Board since 2020, but her volunteerism and engagement go much further back to her days as a student. A winner of the Agnes Benidickson Tricolour Award, Allison was the inaugural president of the Queen's Student Alumni Association (formerly the Student Team on Alumni Relations or "STAR"), a residence don, the AMS Social Issues Commissioner, Food Bank Manager, and a participant in Queen's Model Parliament. She has been an active champion of I-EDIAA issues personally and professionally and is committed to continuing her own learning in this space.

Special thanks to the selection panel: Galvin Niu, Sc'19, Heather Black, Sc'80, George Jackson, Artsci'85, Lindsey Kull (Alumni Volunteer Liaison and Equity Representative) and Leigh Kalin, Artsci'92 (AVP – Strategic Engagement)."

Public announcement of Allison as QUAA President will be made in the coming weeks. Allison's term will officially begin in May 2024, and you will begin hearing more from her in your next newsletter.

Now that the 2024-26 QUAA President Selection is complete, the QUAA Board has opened the application cycle for Directors of the QUAA. As some of you may know, following an 8-month review of Board practices, structure, and commitment to Indigenization, Equity, Diversity, Inclusion, Accessibility and Anti-Racism (I-EDIAA), the QUAA Board held a vote of Alumni Assembly on amendments to the Constitution and Bylaws of the QUAA. One of the many significant adjustments that has been made is that QUAA Directors will now be hired under a uniform position description rather than specific portfolios. This adjustment has been made to reduce barriers during the application and selection process and aim to offer a more collaborative and meaningful volunteer experience. These adjustments have been supported by a vote of the Alumni Assembly on amendments to the QUAA Constitution and Bylaws.

The QUAA Board is looking to fill these positions with a diverse group of alumni, reflective of our alumni population and during this 2-year term, will champion the Board's strong commitment to I-EDIAA in everything they do.

In this role, Directors will support alumni, Advancement, and the University by:

- Championing I-EDIAA within the Queen's community, on the Board and in Assembly
- Impacting the future of the Alumni Association through Board decision making during meetings and retreats.
- Building relationships by participating in events and outreach
- Building on leadership skills or leading as mentors, as Board members and/or chairs of QUAA committees
- Expanding their Queen's networks via learning and engagement opportunities

Most of the work of the Board is remote, however some in-person attendance is required. The full QUAA Director Application, position description and 2024 application process can be found on the QUAA webpage. Applications close on Friday, April 19, 2024.

Please share this opportunity widely in your networks. To ensure we reach the widest audience possible we ask that you challenge any preconceptions or biases you may have about who is 'qualified' or a 'good fit' for this opportunity. All are welcome to apply! Visit the QUAA webpage or reach out to Lindsey Kull, Alumni Volunteer Liaison for more information.

Lastly, a reminder to save the date, Saturday, June 1 to attend the Alumni Awards Gala in Toronto. More details will be released shortly and please read on in your newsletter for the announcement of the 2024 Alumni Gala Award Recipients.

Developed by the Faculty of Education in collaboration with subject-matter experts, the interactive courses are taught by qualified instructors who care deeply about sharing their knowledge and expertise with the community. Spring 2024 Programs:

April 9, 16, 23, 30 (5-7 pm EST) - An Introduction to Architecture

This survey course is designed to provide participants with a general overview of architecture as a blend of artistic expression infused into purposeful design and construction. Using photographic visuals and informative details, this engaging series will explore the fundamental concepts and purposes of architecture, the various types of architecture across the ages, and features some of the most acclaimed architects of our times. Presentations will also include opportunities for discussions and collaborative learning. Instructor: Paolo Fietta Register here.

April 22, 29, May 6, 13 (5-7 pm EST) – The Ethics of Biomedical Enhancement

Recent advances in biomedical knowledge and innovation- such as sequencing of the human genome, gene therapy and genome editing, the biology of aging, behavioural genetics, etc.- raise the prospect that science could be utilized to “enhance” our biology rather than simply search for treatments for specific diseases. In his book Beyond Humanity? (Oxford University Press, 2011) the philosopher Allen Buchanan defines biomedical enhancement as “a deliberate intervention, applying biomedical science, which aims to improve an existing capacity that most or all normal human beings typically have, or to create a new capacity, by acting directly on the body or brain”. This course will introduce students to both the science and ethics of biomedical enhancement, covering a range of topics like eugenics, genetics, the therapy/enhancement distinction, procreative liberty, aging, and memory modification. Instructor: Colin Farrelly Register here
