The Department of Psychiatry at Queen's University is seeking academic psychiatrists to assist in the treatment of individuals with serious and persistent mental illness. Clinical supervision of medical students and psychiatry residents will also be a component of the position.

Applicants should have expertise and experience in general adult psychiatry. Applicants should have a strong emerging research focus, must demonstrate a strong potential for outstanding teaching contribution, as well as commitment to providing exemplary clinical service within an interdisciplinary, collaborative environment. Successful candidates must be eligible for licensure with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario and preference will be given to applicants who have specialty certification from the Royal College of Physicians & Surgeons of Canada or the American Board of Psychiatry.

Kingston is one of Canada’s most beautiful and historic cities. Housing prices compare favourably with the rest of Canada. Kingston is located only two and a half hours from the major Canadian cities of Toronto and Montreal, two hours from Canada’s capital of Ottawa and just a 20-minute drive from the American border.

Queen’s is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, Aboriginal people, persons with disabilities, and persons of any sexual orientation or gender identity. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply, however Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority.

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant’s accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the interview process, please contact: Susan Downey, Administrative Secretary, Department of Psychiatry, Queen’s University. 613-548-5567 ext.5749
