Minister of Training, Colleges and Universities John Milloy visited Queen's today with Kingston and the Islands MPP John Gerretsen, Minister of Consumer Services, on a tour of Ontario post-secondary institutions to announce provincial initiatives to "remove barriers for students navigating through the system." At a meeting with students Minister Milloy outlined the new measures, including ease of transfer credits between post-secondary institutions and improvements to the OSAP student aid program: earlier application dates, online application for part-time students, a no-interest no-payment period for student loans, doubling of the student income exemption and enhanced loan repayment assistance.
