

Dean's Report

December 2020

additional information presented by the Dean at Faculty Board*

Arts and Science News and Kudos

Thank you to all who joined us on Friday, December 4, for our “Let’s Take a Break and Celebrate!” events. It was so wonderful to see so many of you on Zoom for a coffee break and later on for our Hopin event. I hope it was an enjoyable day for everyone who was able to attend.

- Queen’s University Nobel Laureate Arthur McDonald has been honoured by the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada (NSERC) with a national prize in his name. The Arthur B. McDonald Fellowships will recognize early-stage academic researchers in the natural sciences and engineering and support them to enhance their research capacity, so that they can become global leaders in their field. Read more from the Gazette.
- Queen’s University students Matthew Hynes and Jevon Marsh have been selected as 2021 Rhodes Scholars, earning each of them a prestigious scholarship to the University of Oxford worth more than $100,000. With their selection, Marsh, who recently earned a master’s degree in chemistry, and Hynes, a second-year medical student, bring the university’s overall Rhodes Scholars total to 60. Read more from the Gazette.
- Queen’s Film and Media students recently helped out on the set of Netflix production Locke & Key, which filmed some scenes for its upcoming season in Kingston’s Market Square. Several Arts and Science alumni were also involved. Read more from the Gazette.