

Biosciences Complex: Room 1101

Additional Photos:

Image Description: This is the students view from the back of the room facing the podium. There are rows of seating with tablet arms, as well as tiers raising the rows of seats in the back of the room.

1

Image Description: Two sets of double doors with a railing in between. Both sets of doors can be opened by pressing the automatic door button located on the railing between the doors. The doors have a turning handle and lead to a second set of doors to enter the auditorium.

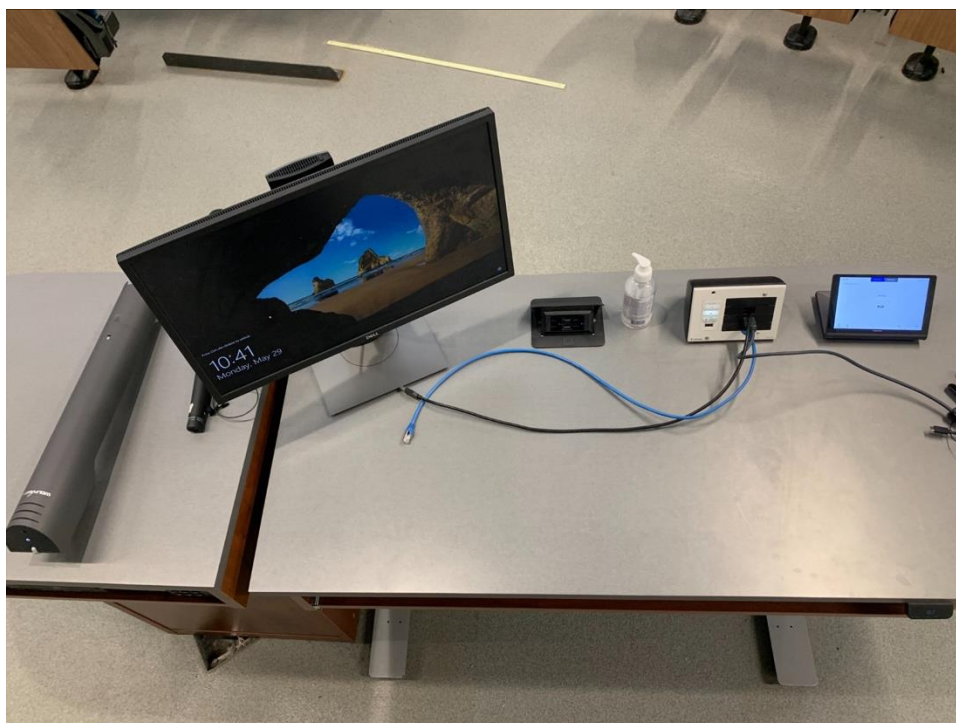

Image Description: The podium is equipped with a computer, an outlet, a set of connection cords to the projector, lecture capture and lighting control.

Image Description: This image is from the point of view of the instructor. There are rows of stationary seats as well as three spaces at the front of the room designated for wheelchair users. The room has a incline with the back of the room raised higher than the front.

For more information about accessibility on campus, please refer to the Accessibility Hub or the Facilities Building Directory.