

Department of Global Development Studies
Queen's University
Tenure-Track Position in Global Health and Development

The Department of Global Development Studies (DEVS) at Queen's University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in the field of Global Health and Development. We welcome applicants whose research examines the opportunities, hierarchies and social justice issues involved in the creation, validation and diffusion of health knowledge, practices and infrastructures across scales. To teach within the field of development studies, successful candidates would be able to address the relationship between health outcomes and contemporary political-economic and socio-cultural trends such as environmental change, urbanisation, new forms of agriculture and industry, migration patterns and shifts in public provisioning alongside the growing influence of the private and philanthropic sectors.

This position has an ideal start date of July 1, 2022. Candidates must have a PhD or equivalent degree completed at the start date of the appointment. The main criteria for selection are research excellence, and the promise of being an exceptional teacher/mentor. The successful candidate would have the ability to teach an introductory undergraduate course on Global Health and Development while also teaching upper-year and graduate courses on related themes. Methodological innovation and comfort with current and emergent teaching technologies will also be assets. The successful candidate will provide evidence of high-quality scholarly output and a promising independent research direction beyond their dissertation. Candidates must provide evidence of strong communicative and interpersonal skills combined with a flexible attitude and ability to work in an interdisciplinary, collaborative environment. The successful candidate will also be expected to make substantive contributions through service to the department, to the Faculty, to the University, and/or to the broader community. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

People from across Canada and around the world come to learn, teach and carry out research at Queen's University. Faculty and their dependents are eligible for an extensive benefits package including prescription drug coverage, vision care, dental care, long term disability insurance, life insurance and access to the Employee and Family Assistance Program. You will also participate in a pension plan. Tuition assistance is available for qualifying employees, their spouses and dependent children. Queen's values families and is pleased to provide a 'top up' to government parental leave benefits for eligible employees on maternity/parental leave. In addition, Queen's provides partial reimbursement for eligible daycare expenses for employees with dependent children in daycare. Details are set out in the Queen's-QUFA Collective Agreement. For more information on employee benefits, see Queen's Human Resources.

Additional information about Queen's University can be found on the Faculty Recruitment and Support website. The University is situated on the traditional territories of the Haudenosaunee and Anishinaabe, in historic Kingston on the shores of Lake Ontario. Kingston's residents enjoy an outstanding quality of life with a wide range of cultural, recreational, and creative opportunities. Visit Inclusive Queen's for information on equity, diversity and inclusion resources and initiatives.

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's is strongly committed to employment equity, diversity and inclusion in the workplace and encourages applications from Black, racialized/visible minority and Indigenous/Aboriginal people, women, persons with disabilities, and 2SLGBTQ+ persons. The Department of Global Development Studies is enriched intellectually, socially and culturally by the presence and participation of people from diverse educational backgrounds, including from the Global South. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian Immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and Permanent Residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with Federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information about how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship, however, all applications must include one of the following statements:

- "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR,
- "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada".

Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete.

A complete application consists of:

- a cover letter (including one of the two statements regarding Canadian citizenship/permanent resident status specified in the previous paragraph);
- a current Curriculum Vitae (including a list of publications);
- a sample of academic writing;
- a statement of research interests and an outline of future research directions; and
- a statement of teaching interests and experience or dossier (including teaching outlines and evaluations if available). Please address in statements how your research and teaching speaks to the field of global development studies.
- If applicable, we encourage a statement explaining any career interruptions that have had an impact on your record.

Short-listed candidates will be further requested to provide three letters of reference.

The deadline for applications is September 26, 2021.

Applications should be addressed to Dr. Marcus Taylor, Department Head, Global Development Studies. We encourage applicants to send all documents in their application packages electronically (either as PDFs (preferred) or MS Word files) to Barbra Lalonde devsmngr@queensu.ca, although hard copy applications may be submitted to:
