

Wolfe Island Gardens is a 1/2 acre market garden located on beautiful Wolfe Island near Kingston, Ontario. 2022 is our second year of operation, selling at a local farmers' market, as well as to restaurants and through a small CSA. The garden is designed to be a teaching garden, small enough to allow room for creativity and experimentation, but large enough to teach the basics of growing and marketing.

I have over 35 years of gardening experience, both as a small scale commercial organic grower and also in developing and facilitating community and school garden projects. I am here to provide mentorship, guidance and some hard work as well as the needed equipment and infrastructure for you to experience the day to day routine of a small market garden.

The position is 40 hours per week from April 1 - October 30 (a bit less in early spring and late fall). There is a paid stipend of $5000 plus a significant portion of sales upon successful completion of the season. On farm accommodation available if needed, but this does not include food, though you are welcome to as much garden produce as you like!

Successful applicants must have a reasonable amount of growing experience, be able to work independently, both with direction and self-directed. They must also have good interpersonal skills and the ability to work cooperatively with others and enjoy dealing with the public. Driver's license is an asset but not essential.
