Art and Waste in Pangnirtung, Nunavut

Micky Renders is a Ph.D. student in the School of Environmental Studies, Queen's University, and a member of Canada's Waste Flow, an interdisciplinary research group connecting people interested in the topic of waste under the supervision of Dr. Myra Hird.

Her research aims to animate the social, cultural, and political issues of waste(s) in collaboration with Inuit artists in Pangnirtung, Nunavut, using a decolonial framework to co-create a touring art exhibition that serves as an urgent call to action.
