

Dissertation Boot Camp

Host: SGS / Writing Centre / Learning Strategies

This one week intensive boot camp is designed to accelerate your progress in the final stages of writing your Master's or PhD thesis. Participants commit to spending four days (in the February Reading Week) or 5 days in June writing their dissertation in a comfortable environment dedicated to writing. The Writing Center and Learning Strategies will provide one-on-one learning and writing support if desired, as well as some short spot-light talks on subjects especially relevant to the thesis writing, such as maintaining writing momentum. Group discussions will also focus on challenges common to graduate-level writing and, especially, large writing projects.

Learn more about Dissertation Boot Camp and how/when to register under the Academic Development – Writing support section of this website.