Awards (Academic & Non-Academic)

Awards include Bursaries, Scholarships, Fellowships, and Prizes.

The office responsible for processing award payments will depend on how the award is classified.

The classification of the award and the award’s recipient will determine if the payment is considered taxable income.

To learn more about the payment process and the issuance of applicable tax slips in each case, use this table to know who to contact for guidance.

Gifts & Awards to Employees

A Gift has to be for a special occasion such as a religious holiday, a wedding, or the birth of a child.

An Award has to be for an employment-related accomplishment, such as an outstanding service award, not recognition of job performance.

Cash includes currency, cheques, and direct deposits.

A Near Cash item is one that functions as cash or an item that can be easily converted to cash, such as a gift card.

A Non Cash item is one where there is no element of choice, such as tickets to an event on a specific date and time.
Gifts & Awards to Employees
Paid from Queen’s Funds

A Gift to an employee is always taxable.

An Award to an employee has to be for an employment-related accomplishment such as outstanding service, employees’ suggestions, or meeting or exceeding safety standards. It is recognition of an employee’s overall contribution to the workplace, not recognition of job performance.

Generally, a valid, non-taxable award is a non cash item and has clearly defined criteria, a nomination and evaluation process, and a limited number of recipients.

It is the department’s responsibility to contact Payroll Services and ensure that taxable gifts and awards are included on an employee’s T4. For details, contact payroll.services@queensu.ca
Honorarium:
A non-solicited payment for services for which no fee is set or legally attainable.

Speaker Fee:
An honorarium paid to a speaker, facilitator or performer, on a one-time, short-term basis.

Visiting Lecturer Fee:
A payment for services provided by an external party; one who has been solicited to give a lecture.
