

October 11, 2022 |
Vol. 6, No. 5

GEOGRAPHY AND PLANNING WEEKLY

Queen's Geography and Planning Experts in the News

David Gordon (Arts and Science, Department of Geography and Planning)

Ottawa Magazine:

Election 22: Sprawl and the city

Prof. Gordon says that in every large metropolitan region, at least 80 percent of residents live in the suburbs.

Maxwell Hartt (Arts and Science, Department of Geography and Planning)

CFRC Radio Queen's:

Citizen K – Oct. 4

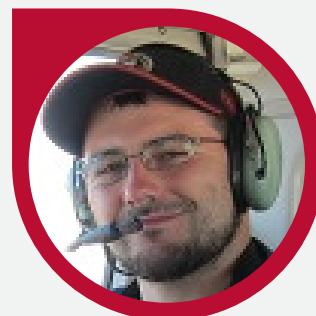

Dr. Hartt talks about how demographic shifts are affecting communities.

Robert Way (Arts and Science, Department of Geography and Planning)

Globe and Mail:

Post-tropical storm Fiona shows vulnerabilities in Canada's weather-radar network, expert says

Dr. Way talks about how there is no weather radar coverage across large parts of Canada.

GEORGE LOVELL AT THE FRONTENAC HERITAGE FOUNDATION

As part of celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, the Frontenac Heritage Foundation has invited George Lovell to present a heritage-related talk, to be held at the Upper Hall of The Spire, 82 Sydenham Street, on Thursday October 13 at 7.00pm. George will discuss Portugal and Spain as colonial powers whose authority prevailed from the late 15th to the early 19th centuries, with Lisbon and Seville at the heart of global empires and Europe's then domination of the non-European world. His PowerPoint presentation is entitled: "A Tale of Two Cities: Lisbon, Seville, and Opening Up the World." All members of the Department are invited to attend.

A Tale of Two Cities:
Lisbon, Seville, and Opening Up the World

Dr. George Lovell will discuss Spain and Portugal as colonial powers in the late 15th to early 19th centuries, with Lisbon and Seville as the hearts of two global empires, with a focus on art & architecture!

October 13, at 7:00 pm,
Upper Hall at The Spire, 82 Sydenham Street
Everyone is welcome

Sponsored by the Frontenac Heritage Foundation

John Meisel Lecturer for 2022

The John Meisel Lecture in Contemporary Political Controversies is back, and Queen's Department of Political Studies is very pleased to announce that Elamin Abdelmahmoud will be our 2022 lecturer!

Elamin is the author of "Son of Elsewhere: A Memoir in Pieces", host of CBC's Pop Chat, senior culture writer at Buzz Feed News, and a Queen's University alumnus (ArtSci '11).

SAVE THE DATE
15 NOVEMBER 2022 | 4:00 PM
ROOM 1101, BIOSCIENCES COMPLEX

The 4th Annual John Meisel Lecture in Contemporary Political Controversies

FEATURING
ELAMIN ABDELMAHMOUD
AUTHOR OF "SON OF ELSEWHERE: A MEMOIR IN PIECES"

GIS Day in Canada

Join Esri Canada on Monday,
November 14th as we launch
Geography Awareness Week with
GIS Day in Canada!

Let's Celebrate
GIS day

In this free virtual seminar, we are excited to celebrate and present the unconventional ways in which GIS brings people together to address challenges and build stronger communities. A connected community provides us with a deeper sense of inclusion, a strong support system, and greater opportunities.

Registration and more information:

<https://www.esri.ca/en-ca/news-events/events/seminars/overview/gis-day/overview>