CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to Cassandra Caiger (MPL’13) on receiving the Canadian Institute of Planners’ President's Award for Young Planners. She joins SURP grads David Fitzpatrick (MPL’08) and Andrew Sacret (MPL’05) as winners of this national award for outstanding professional success and achievement of a young Canadian planner. https://twitter.com/QueensSURP/status/1131609185940938752

All 7000 members of the Canadian Institute of Planners received a 230 page monograph last week exploring the past, present and future of planning in Canada. This special Issue of the profession’s journal, Plan Canada, was commissioned from leading scholars and practitioners as part of the celebration of centenary the CIP’s founding in 1919.

Professor Leela Viswanathan authored the concluding article “All Our Relations” reflecting on the future of Planning with Indigenous Peoples in Canada. Other contributors with connections to the Department included Professor Emeritus Mohamad Qadeer on multiculturalism; Professors Alison Blay-Palmer (PDF’08) & Karen Landman (PhD’03) on food systems; Dr. Julia Markovich (MPL’02) on early barriers to women in planning; Dr. Markus Moos (MPL’06) on millennials; and Professor Heather Hall (PhD ’12) on regional planning.

David Gordon was principal editor of the issue and co-author of the keynote article on Canadian planning histories.

The CIP Centenary Plan Canada special issue is publically available here.

Professor Viswanathan has been moderating the conversations in Forward Planning, a CIP Centenary special project contemplating the future of the planning profession and practice. Videos of the first two sessions are available here, and you can watch the third session live on May 31, by registering here.
Finally, the honours for veteran Queen’s employees last week also included Professors Audrey Kobayashi and David Gordon for 25 years of service.
