

Pre-doctoral Fellowships for Black Studies Students

APPLICATIONS ARE NOW OPEN
Application deadline: March 31, 2026

Arts and Science one-year Pre-doctoral Fellowships are open to PhD students working on doctoral research in the creative arts, humanities, social sciences, or natural and physical sciences at an accredited Canadian university other than Queen's University.

It's a unique opportunity. FAS Fellows:

- relocate to Kingston while completing their research to teach one course and contribute to intellectual life at the university.
- gain research and teaching experience at a different university, which is a competitive advantage for academic and non-academic jobs after graduation.
- receive supports for their intellectual and scholarly development in ways that position them for success.
- earn a stipend, wages for teaching, and funds for relocation and conferences.
- receive their degree from their home institution.

LEARN MORE

Join us for an online information session:

TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 12:00 noon • MONDAY, MARCH 9, 6:00pm

Register now and/or visit
queensu.ca/artsci/predocs

