

*The Department of Political Studies
& the Department of Gender Studies present*

(NEO)LIBERALIZING HUNGARY: GENDER, TRANSNATIONAL BUSINESS AND THE ASSEMBLAGE OF WELFARE

Csilla Kalocsai

Visiting Scholar

*Centre for Women's Studies in Education
OISE, University of Toronto*

Wednesday, March 14, 2012

2:30 – 4:00 pm

Mackintosh-Corry, Rm. B-313

Biography:

Csilla Kalocsai, PhD, studied cultural anthropology at Yale and is currently a Visiting Scholar at the Centre for Women's Studies in Education at the University of Toronto's Ontario Institute for Studies in Education. Csilla is working on a book manuscript that explores how transnational business institutions participate in neoliberal projects, transforming formerly socialist corporate environments, populations, knowledges and practices in Hungary. She is also beginning a new research project on Hungarian Roma asylum seekers in Canada. Csilla has been the recipient of the Association for Feminist Anthropology's Sylvia Forman Prize and the Society for the Anthropology of Europe Prize for best graduate student essay.