The Brockington Visitorship

The Brockington Visitorship was established in 1968 by a generous donation from Colonel R.S. McLaughlin for a five-year trial period in honour of Leonard Brockington, who was Rector of Queen's University for 17 years. In 1974 permanent funding was received from the R.S. McLaughlin Foundation. The income from the trust was defined to be used to invite "a person of international distinction" to come to Queen's to deliver a public lecture and to meet formally and informally with faculty and students.

In March 2019, the terms of reference for the Brockington Visitorship were amended under the authority of the Provost and Vice-Principal (Academic) and the Vice-Principal (Advancement). The Funds can now be used to bring person(s) of distinction to Queen's University campus for the delivery of public lectures, performances, speaker series, scholarly events, residencies, exhibitions, and media presentations. Preference will be given to proposals that support a public lecture.

The Chancellor Dunning Trust Lectureship

The Chancellor Dunning Trust Lectureship was established in 1946 by an anonymous donor who gave $100,000 to Queen's University to establish a permanent tribute to Chancellor Charles A. Dunning. The income from the trust is to be used "to promote understanding and appreciation of the supreme importance of the dignity, freedom and responsibility of the individual person in human society".

In March 2019, the terms of reference for the Dunning Trust were amended under the authority of the Provost and Vice-Principal (Academic) and the Vice-Principal (Advancement). The Fund has been renamed the Chancellor Dunning Trust Visitorship (formerly Lectureship). The use of the fund has been expanded to include proposals for the delivery of public lectures, performances, scholarly events, exhibitions, speaker series and media presentations that promote understanding and appreciation of the supreme importance of the dignity, freedom and responsibility of the individual person in human society. Preference will be given to proposals that contain a public lecture.

III. Guidelines

- Grants for the Brockington and the Dunning are intended to assist in covering the costs for the Visitorship. Applications should take into account the costs associated with ensuring the event is accessible to distinguished visitor(s) and attendees with disabilities. Measures to accomplish accessibility may include: choosing wheelchair accessible facilities, arranging sign language interpretation of the event, translation of presentation materials into other languages or alternate media, reimbursement of child care expenses and/or other ordinary costs associated with securing the participation of persons who could not otherwise take part in the special event.
- Nominators are reminded that all events sponsored by Queen's University are to be accessible to people with disabilities. In their planning, nominators must give accessibility the highest priority.
- Successful applicants will make all arrangements for the Visitorship and be responsible for hosting visitor(s) while on campus.
- Individual, interdisciplinary and/or collaborative applications are equally eligible provided that the Visitorship will appeal to the broader university community.

- In reaching its decision the advisory committee looks at the suitability of the visitor(s), the impact the special visit will have on enriching the broader learning environment, the topic and, the quality of the application.

- Applications will be accepted for up to $7,000 for the Brockington Visitorship and up to $16,000 for the Chancellor Dunning Trust Visitorship. All items in the proposal must be justified and must include estimated costs associated with ensuring the event is accessible to people with disabilities.

IV. Terms and Conditions

- Although the advisory committee recognizes the challenges of scheduling visits of distinguished guests to campus, preference will be given to applications that are for events planned for the upcoming academic year. If you must defer the event until the following year due to circumstances beyond your control, an extension must be granted by the Office of the Provost.
- Within 90 days of the conclusion of the project, all successful applicants must submit a report, including a breakdown of actual revenues and expenditures and a list of activities associated with the Visitorship. Failure to submit a report to the Provost's Advisory Committee for the Promotion of the Arts will render the individual or group ineligible for future funding from the Brockington Visitorship and the Chancellor Dunning Trust Visitorship.

- Please note that any unused portion of an award must be returned. The Provost's Advisory Committee for the Promotion of the Arts is not responsible for covering deficits of visits that cost more than the anticipated budget.
