Queen's recognizes that the teaching and learning landscape is shifting, exciting new directions and if we are to remain successful in providing the ultimate transformative student learning experience, we must continue to identify and implement new opportunities that build on our strong foundations. This work is achieved through innovative solutions, such as active and collaborative learning techniques, rethinking classroom spaces, and implementing alternative program delivery methods to better reflect the opportunities of the digital age. Our objectives are guided by the Academic Plan, Strategic Framework 2014-19 and the Truth and Reconciliation Committee Report (TRC).
