Supervised Practice Hours /Pre-doctoral Internship in School and Child Clinical Psychology, Clinical Services, Department of Educational Psychology, University of Alberta

Clinical Services is offering one full-time Senior Associate Clinician (SAC) position in Clinical Services for pre-doctoral internship or for a provisionally registered psychologist in Counselling Psychology (CP) or School and Child Clinical Psychology (SCCP). The SAC position provides interns/provisionally registered psychologists with a focus on assessment, intervention, and consultation working with children, adolescents, and individuals transitioning to adulthood. The internship is designed to train interns/provisionally registered psychologists to address the range of problems that professional psychologists may expect to encounter as well as to meet the requirements for registration with the College of Alberta Psychologists (or equivalent). The internship provides the opportunity for an integration of graduate education, psychological theory, and professional skills under the supervision of experienced registered psychologists and faculty.

The position will run from October 4, 2021 until August 30, 2022, or shortly thereafter with an amended end date as required.

The successful candidate will serve as a Senior Associate Clinician in Clinical Services. Furthermore, the candidate will be involved with conducting psychological assessments of clients for psycho-educational, vocational, and clinical purposes and delivering interventions (counselling, therapy). Additionally, under supervision, interns/provisional psychologists are expected to take responsibility for clinic administration related to professional practice. The SAC may also lead a mentorship group of students in a first-year Master’s program in School and Child Clinical Psychology. Depending on the SAC’s prior training, the position also provides the possibility of receiving advanced training and experience in psychological assessment.

Supervision is primarily provided by:

-- Dr. Karen Cook, who is experienced in assessment, treatment, and consultation in infant and preschool mental health and children’s mental health in the public sector (healthcare, Head Start and school programs), and individual and group counselling in the private sector. Her research interests focus on early parent-child relationships and individual differences.

-- Dr. Kevin Wallace, who is experienced working in public (healthcare) and private sector counselling psychology. He has expertise in psychotherapy process and outcome research, with a particular focus on Therapist Effects.

The position offers a competitive salary with a significant benefits package.
