Brief Course Description:

This course is designed to orient students to the field and profession of clinical psychology. This course offers a survey of major topics in clinical psychology, including a brief history of clinical psychology; common theoretical approaches in assessment and intervention; ethical, professional and theoretical issues; and emerging trends. Students also will be briefly introduced to subspecialties within clinical psychology, such as clinical child psychology. Professional activities of clinical psychologists (e.g., consultation) will also be discussed.

Overall Course Goals/Learning Objectives:

At the end of the course, students will be able to:

1. Identify and explain the role of different assessment approaches (structured interview, behavioural observation, self-report questionnaire, psychological test, file review)
2. Demonstrate their understanding of the rationale and techniques of the major evidence-based forms of psychotherapy, including cognitive-behavioural and dialectical behaviour therapies.
3. Understand the role of the client and the therapist in negotiating the therapeutic relationship including rapport building, assessment, treatment planning, compliance and closure.
4. Discuss the role of the psychologist in a multidisciplinary team and as well as the roles of other health professionals.
5. Identify and consider how to resolve common ethical issues in clinical practice.

Academic Integrity

Academic integrity is constituted by the five core fundamental values of honesty, trust, fairness, respect and responsibility (see www.academicintegrity.org). These values are central to the building, nurturing and sustaining of an academic community in which all members of the community will thrive. Adherence to the values expressed through academic integrity forms a foundation for the "freedom of inquiry and exchange of ideas" essential to the intellectual life of the University (see the Senate Report on Principles and Priorities <http://www.queensu.ca/secretariat/policies/senateandtrustees/principlespriorities.html>).

Students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with the regulations concerning academic integrity and for ensuring that their assignments conform to the principles of academic integrity. Information on academic integrity is available in the Arts and Science Calendar (see Academic Regulation 1 <http://www.queensu.ca/artsci/academic-calendars/2011-2012-calendar/academic-regulations/regulation-1>), on the Arts and Science website (see <http://www.queensu.ca/artsci/academics/undergraduate/academic-integrity>), and from the instructor of this course. Departures from academic integrity include plagiarism, use of unauthorized materials, facilitation, forgery and falsification, and are antithetical to the development of an academic community at Queen's. Given the seriousness of these matters, actions which contravene the regulation on academic integrity carry sanctions that can range from a warning or the loss of grades on an assignment to the failure of a course to a requirement to withdraw from the university.
