OPPORTUNITY TO MENTOR PSYC 100 STUDENTS

Course Description
PSYC 400/6.0 will introduce senior undergraduate students to the scholarship and practice of teaching. We will explore what it means to be a scholarly teacher, how research informs educational practice, and how people effectively learn complex information. Contact hours include 4 seminar and 2 practicum hours per week. In addition, substantial reading, writing, mentorship, and group work are required.

The seminar will focus on the theoretical elements through journal readings, critiques, and facilitated discussions. Practical skills will be gained as you take on the role of facilitator and workshop leader in class and as you lead two groups of PSYC 100 students through their weekly lab activities.

Upon successful completion of PSYC 400/6.0, students will be eligible to apply for a paid position as a TA in PSYC 100 during the winter term.

Students must complete an application and be invited for an interview in the spring to be eligible for this fall-term course. For further information, deadlines, and application form, see below.

By participating in PSYC 400 and as a PSYC 100 facilitator, you will:
- gain presentation, teaching, and group facilitation skills;
- develop close relationships with your fellow PSYC concentrators;
- consolidate your understanding of introductory psychology (great GRE prep!);
- question some common beliefs about how we learn;
- be part of a large, vibrant instructional team; and
- make a difference in 1st year students’ lives.

This course is meant to be challenging, but it is also a lot of fun! Past students have thoroughly enjoyed facilitating PSYC 100 labs, and getting to know their classmates and grad student facilitators in a team-based setting unique to this course. As one student put it: “This course also helped me make friends in my program. I feel like I’m more a part of the psychology department and the Queen’s community.” We hope this course provides you not only with foundational knowledge in pedagogical research, but also with experiences and skills that will serve you as you continue your journeys as life-long learners.

Prerequisites
- Upper year standing in an Honours Psychology program (PSYC 203/3.0 completed)
- B+ PSYC average (3.30 PSYC GPA)
- Successful completion of an application and interview at the end of the winter term

How to Apply
- Applications are available outside the UG office HUM 225
- Deadline to apply is March 26th
- Interviews will be held April 2th - 13th

This course is intended for students entering 4th year in 2019-2020.

Applications can be picked up from the UG Office Humphrey 225 or by clicking the link here.
The Queen's Psychology Department invites you to participate in QPCC: Queen's Psychology Careers Conference - on Friday, March 22nd, 2019.
This event is not a careers fair, but an opportunity for students in Psychology to explore the various career paths that stem from a degree in Psychology. This is an excellent opportunity to network, develop your skills, and discover careers that you may wish to pursue.

The dress code for this conference is business casual. Registration is required for attendance at the conference. Registration can be completed here.

Lunch will be provided - if you have any special dietary concerns please email 15mrvh@queensu.ca.

Below is the schedule for the day:

9:00-9:45: Welcome
9:45-10:00: Break
10:00-10:45: Skills & Development
10:45-11:00: Break
11-11:45: Networking
12:00-1:00: Keynote speaker, Dr. Michael Seto, Forensic Clinical Psychologist
1:00-1:15: Break
1:15-2:00: Round Table I
2:00-2:15: Break
2:15-3:00: Round Table II
3:00-3:15: Break
3:15-4:00: Round Table III
4:00-5:00: Networking

If you have any question or concerns regarding this event, please send an email to Megan Herrewynen at 15mrvh@queensu.ca. Thank you!
Research Opportunities/Positions

Culture and Cognition Lab

Dear First and Second year Psychology students,

The Culture & Cognition lab is hiring research assistants for the 2019/2020 academic year. This volunteer position will begin in September 2019 and would require you to volunteer 8-10 hours per week.

Responsibilities include:

- Attending and contributing to weekly lab meetings
- Recruiting participants for ongoing studies
- Running participants for ongoing studies (data collection)
- Miscellaneous (e.g., entering data, reviewing study materials, editing manuscripts, etc.)

We are looking for a student who are conscientious and independent, displays multitasking skills and leadership skills, and have great attention to detail. Previous research experience is not required.

Applications are due Monday, April 1st 2019. The application form can be found here.

Your application should include:

1) A completed Application Form (see attached)
2) An unofficial transcript (downloaded from Solus)
3) Your resume
4) Your interview availability between the dates for April 8th and April 9th.

Please send all applications, as well as relevant questions to jilabstudies@gmail.com

If you are selected for an interview, you will be notified of your interview time by April 5th.

We look forward to hearing from you! Queen’s Culture and Cognition Lab
Part-time Lab Coordinator Position at QVCL

The Queen's Visual Cognition Lab (QVCL) is currently looking for a Lab Coordinator (starting date is negotiable). This is a paid position and starts at $15/hr. The time commitment is about 20hrs/week and hours are flexible.

This is an ideal position if you are graduating this year, would like to take some time off before continuing your studies or are considering graduate school but are not yet sure. It is an excellent way to gain extensive research experience. We are looking for someone who wants to learn more about Cognitive Psychology and Vision Research and can commit to the position for at least one year. Skills in programming preferred but not required. Preference will also be given to applicants that have some basic knowledge of Adobe Photoshop or 3D Studio Max.

In addition to research, this position involves some administrative duties. We are looking for an organized and detailed-oriented person, who enjoys working with others.

If you are interested, please apply here. Applications are due Wednesday, March 20th, at 11:59 PM.

If you have any questions regarding the position, please email the current Lab Coordinator, Haley Kenna, at qvcl.coord@gmail.com

If you would like more information about our research, feel free to browse our website at https://qvcl.ca/

EVENTS AND OPPORTUNITIES OF INTEREST

You're invited to the Queen's Cares Showcase!

Join us as we celebrate student community engagement and experiential learning on March 13th from 6:00 to 7:30pm at the Agnes Etherington Art Centre. The event will feature interactive displays and presentations that highlight local and international partnerships developed through the Queen's Cares program. You'll also have the opportunity to enjoy jazz music from local artist and Queen's Cares participant, Michelle Kasaboski.

Doors open at 5:30pm and refreshments will be served. We hope to see you there!
Legacy Annual Culture Show

Culture Show being hosted by the African Caribbean Students’ Association. The event will take place on March 15th at the Isabel Bader Centre for the Performing Arts beginning at 7:30PM. The doors will open at 6:30PM. The theme for this year is Legacy. We hope to tie in the history of many cultures’ pasts, presents, and futures while highlighting their resilience, strength, and beauty.

Our Culture Show helps to display the rich diversity in on-campus groups and within community organizations through the movements of dance, the sounds of spoken words and songs, and under the colourful displays of lights and vibrant sounds with other presentations. It is my hope that you will leave the event having gained something new.

APPLIED LITERARY TRANSLATION PROGRAM
Dalkey Archive Press

Dalkey Archive Press now invites applications for the summer session of its

Applied Literary Translation Program

A unique program that provides one-on-one weekly meetings with an editor, leading to the publication by Dalkey Archive Press of participants’ first book-length translation. To date, over fifty participants have had, or soon will have, their translations published. In addition to translation work, the program will provide exposure to rights acquisitions, best methods for working with authors, translator contracts, and the role of translators in gaining publicity for their translations.

WHEN

June–August 2019, though start to end dates are flexible

WHO

Emerging translators of any age who are prepared to undertake their first book-length translation but who are still in need of working with a professional editor. Both native English speakers and those from the language of origin are welcome to apply. The program has demonstrated that non-native speakers have produced outstanding translations while working closely with an editor.

APPLICATIONS

The deadline for applying is March 31, 2019.
Only five applicants will be accepted into the program.

Required documents: resume, in addition to a cover letter, and at least one sample translation of 5–10 pages.

To apply, send these in an email entitled “Applied Literary Translation Program” addressed to John O’Brien, obrien@dalkeyarchive.com

FEES

$5,500, much or all of which will be reimbursed through payment for the published translation. This fee is used to help defray the approximate $20,000 cost of publication and the honorarium paid to the editor.
