Distinguished Lecture Series: Dr. Ara Norenzayan

Department of Psychology
2018-2019 Distinguished Lecturer Series

DR. ARA NORENZAYAN, University of British Columbia
TALK: The Psychology of Theodiversity

ABSTRACT
Most people in the world are religious, yet there is tremendous diversity in beliefs and practices throughout history and across cultures. In this talk, I present a program of research on the psychological antecedents and consequences of religion and religious diversity or “theodiversity.” I explore how diversity in religious beliefs and practices, some of them centered on the “Big Gods” of world religions promote large-scale cooperation, but also are implicated in intergroup competition and conflict. I also discuss how religious diversity, including different forms of disbelief, plays a role in intercultural relations and human-nature interactions in our globalized world.

BIOGRAPHY
Ara Norenzayan is professor of psychology at the University of British Columbia, and a co-director of UBC’s Centre for Human Evolution, Cognition, and Culture (HECC). He has published widely on the evolutionary origins of religion, and the psychology of religious diversity in today’s globalized world. He is the author of Big Gods: How Religion Transformed Cooperation and Conflict.

The next Distinguished Lecture in Psychology is scheduled for Friday, April 5th at 2:30pm, in Kinesiology 101.

Dr. Ara Norenzayan, University of British Columbia, will be giving his lecture entitled, "The Psychology of Theodiversity." A reception will be held at the University Club following the lecture. If you are interested in meeting with Dr. Norenzayan, please contact the local host, LiJun Ji.

EVENTS AND OPPORTUNITIES OF INTEREST

African and Caribbean Students’ Association

It is with pleasure that the African and Caribbean Students’ Association (ACSA) invites you to our end of year celebration – This Is ACSA: A Legacy Showcase, which will be taking place this week on Friday March 29th at the Agnes Etherington Art Centre from 7:00pm-9:00pm. Please note that the event will be held in the Atrium and doors will open at 6:30pm.

This event will be attended by students, staff, faculty, administration and community members. We are excited to foster an environment in which we can celebrate the Legacy that is ACSA, and the critical work we have been doing as a community over the past 40 years. The evening will be filled with speeches, performances, a special reveal of our Legacy Project and of course the opportunity to network. We are also incredibly excited to be welcoming back ACSA Alumni, to showcase the importance of representation and visibility on campus and life after Queen’s.

We invite you to join us for an elegant night of wine and cheese but of course combined with the celebratory culture of ACSA, which includes some authentic Caribbean food and music. We will also have access to the Art Gallery, in which we wish to draw special attention to the Art of African Ivory and Soundings Exhibit.

Please note that the event is free and that the dress code is semi-formal. This is a family-friendly event so all are welcomed!

Please feel free to RSVP here and check out our Facebook Event Page here.
