

2022-2023 Commitment Scholars Application Questions

This document is for practice purposes only, and cannot be sent directly to the Student Awards Office. This practice application is available to assist you in preparing your responses in advance of the February 15th deadline. The practice application contains the exact questions that will appear on the online application. There will not be any additional questions.

Queen's is committed to equity, diversity, inclusion and Indigenization (EDI) in our recruitment and admission practices, and is further committed to creating a welcoming and inclusive environment on campus. The Commitment Scholars program is one initiative to support diversity on campus and to recognize the significant contributions our students make to creating and supporting an inclusive community, and their commitment to racial justice, social justice and diversity in their schools, their communities and at Queen's.

Eligibility

1. Canadian citizens, permanent residents or protected persons of Canada.
2. Applicants must be entering the first year of a first-entry undergraduate degree program at Queen's University for the first time, full-time.
3. Self-identification as a member of an underserved or underrepresented group, including Black, Indigenous, and other racialized students, Persons with Disabilities, and 2SLGBTQ+ individuals.
4. Demonstrated leadership in, and commitment to, racial justice, social justice, or diversity initiatives in their high school or their local community.
5. Given the value of this award, candidates who receive this award will not receive other merit-based awards.

Dates and Deadlines

The deadline to submit the completed online application is February 15, 2022.

Recipients will be notified by the end of April 2022.

Instructions and Notes

1. The application includes 3 questions. It is recommended that you prepare your responses in advance, and copy and paste them into the form, before submitting the form. You cannot save drafts or partially completed applications.
2. The practice application (link to PDF Practice application) contains the exact questions that will appear in the online application form. There will not be any additional questions.
3. The application must include contact information for a verifier who is able to validate and confirm the information in the application.
