RAQ
GUIDELINES RE FUND RAISING AND THE DISTRIBUTION OF PROMOTIONAL MATERIAL

RAQ’s mission is to act on behalf of its members and to advance their interests wherever possible. It is not an organization with significant financial assets of its own and its role does not include helping other groups or organizations achieve their objectives. As such, RAQ should normally not become involved in fundraising activities by other groups and organizations and would not be prepared to make any donation for such purposes. More particularly, RAQ would normally not canvass its members or transmit fund raising material to its members on behalf of financial campaigns by other groups or organizations.

Also, RAQ would not normally transmit to its members any promotional or other information on behalf of other agencies, groups, enterprises or businesses seeking to sell their products or services or otherwise to promote their interest. An exception to this policy may be made with respect to Queen’s University or any of its departments or agencies. RAQ may transmit to its members informational or promotional material arising within the Queen’s community provided that no sales pressure of any kind is involved and provided that there is no endorsement of any product or service by RAQ.

In no case shall RAQ make its membership list available to any other agency or group. In those cases where such promotional or other information is transmitted on behalf of others to the membership, RAQ shall do so itself. Also, if any member of RAQ requests that such informational or promotional material not be transmitted to that member, RAQ will respect that request.
