1. Why did you select Queen's University?

I was looking for an opportunity that would enable me to broaden my scope; being versatile and not limited to any field and that is what I found with the MIB program at Queen's University. While conducting my research for graduate studies, I realized that Queen's was the only institution offering the program of my choice and exactly what I was looking for. Coupled with its long history of academic excellence, outstanding reputation, renowned professors, and its many administrative resources, I knew this institution had what it took to help me achieve my goals.

2. Most memorable moment as a student?

The times I spent with my friends; I was able to develop some real connections with people who I still interact with and support me till date.

3. What is the best career advice you have ever received?

I must never be afraid to take risk and never compromise on who I am. No matter how minuscule my job or role may be, I must always strive to make a difference and have an impact. But most importantly, I must always believe in myself, and have passion for what I do.

4. What is the career highlight you're most proud of?

Managing the marketing development program, my team and I were able to win best practices in Africa which was implemented in our sister companies across the globe.

5. How do you spend your free time?

I am a foodie. Lol. I spend my free time cooking or out with friends. I love outdoor activities as well so I either go to the park or hiking. If I am not doing any of these, I am watching a movie or listening to music.

6. Your aspirations for being on University Council?

I have had people come to me with issues they have encountered at Queen's and would like addressed. Some of these issues are the driving force for why I opted to be on the council. I am hoping I could harness on their experiences and mine as well, to tackle some of these issues related to diversity and the graduate school experience, to help foreign students have a memorable feel during their time at Queens.
