INTRODUCTION FROM THE PRINCIPAL

A strong visual identity plays an important role in shaping the image of the university. Each time Queen’s communicates with its audiences, we have an opportunity to communicate our vision and values.

When a brand is easily and consistently recognizable, it strengthens public awareness. Visual consistency across faculties, departments and programs is critical in enhancing and raising Queen’s profile.

The impact of our brand is measured not only by what people know about us, and how they feel about us, but by how easily they recognize Queen’s and identify with the institution. By following these guidelines, you are protecting one of our most valuable assets – our brand identity.

The Visual Identity Policy for Queen’s is approved by the Board of Trustees and the Queen’s logo and associated marks are trademarked and protected by licensing agreements. The current trademarked Queen’s logo has been a part of publications and communications to local, national and global audiences for more than 15 years.

This guide outlines the requirements for using the logo and customization of unit signatures for departments. All campus groups responsible for the production of both print and electronic communications produced by, or for the university, are expected to apply these standards correctly.

I know we all share an immense pride in this institution – its past, its present and its future. Our rich history reflects an overwhelming unity in our traditions and in our expression of spirit. Consistent application of the Queen’s logo and adherence to our Visual Identity Policy and Standards helps to strengthen the Queen’s identity and public profile.

EQUITY, DIVERSITY AND INCLUSIVITY

The Queen’s Visual Identity Policy supports the university’s interest that all diverse cultures and identities be reflected and expressed in all aspects of university life, including communications and publications, both in print and on digital platforms.

The university is committed to communicating and promoting messages of anti-racism, inclusivity, diversity, and equity in the stories we tell about faculty, staff, students, programs, and projects. Queen’s strives to be a welcoming and inclusive environment for all campus constituents, and as such affirms that addressing issues of diversity, inclusion, and equity must be a collaborative effort, focused on partnership and community building.

All communications, marketing and promotional materials emanating from Queen’s must demonstrate equity, inclusivity and diversity in design, photography and content, and in all cases must meet the Canadian Code of Advertising Standards as it relates to equity and diversity and portrayals thereof.

MESSAGE OF SUSTAINABILITY

Queen’s and the Environment

In support of Queen’s continuing efforts towards an international presence, the production of our communication materials should reflect our vision. To that end, we advocate for the use of environmentally-friendly inks, paper and printing processes. Queen’s is committed to buying FSC (ca.fsc.org) certified forest products that support environmentally responsible, socially beneficial and economically viable management of the world’s forests. Wherever possible, the use of environmentally-friendly papers is encouraged.
INTRODUCTION

VISUAL IDENTITY AND GRAPHIC STANDARDS POLICY

The Queen's Visual Identity Guide provides specific guidelines and standards to the Queen's community for the implementation of the Queen's visual identity and graphic standards system in all forms of university communication.

Originally endorsed and approved by the Board of Trustees in May 2000, the Visual Identity was developed in extensive consultation with faculty, staff, students, and alumni. This revised guide provides specific and user-friendly guidelines for proper implementation.

WHY DOES QUEEN'S NEED VISUAL AND GRAPHIC STANDARDS?

A strong and consistent visual identity, made up of communication of strategic messages and strong graphic presentation, is a necessary element for all communications emanating from Queen's University.

A vibrant institutional identity projects excellence and professionalism, an image that is critical in attracting, retaining and engaging support from our audiences. Consistency of communication to both internal and external audiences reinforces a strong Queen's identity and reputation, and will help to further shape our position in the marketplace.

The university recognizes the need for distinctive expression within units and departments on campus to specific audiences, and that these are critical to the communication and marketing process. As such these standards have been developed with the intention of being flexible enough to allow individual and creative expression for units, while remaining true to the goal of the overall identity standards and providing clear and consistent communication.

THE GRAPHIC ELEMENTS

While strong branding is much more than simple graphic elements, long-term brand success cannot exist without a common look that ensures all of our audiences know the communication and message is from a unified voice. Communication material that consistently makes use of the Queen's logo (or the Queen's webmark on websites), fonts and colours creates a strong unified presence. This flexible framework ensures our audiences will immediately identify with Queen's University regardless of audience or message or medium.

In support of the Queen's Brand is a unique graphics package for print, which consists of a logo, fonts, and colours.

Queen's communication material makes use of a controlled palette that consists of logo, fonts and colour.

Unit-specific design treatments

All print communication materials from Queen's University will use the master brand logo. All official Queen's websites and electronic communications platforms will use the Queen's webmark. Logos and wordmarks for individual units will not be created. Should your initiative require assistance in creating a design treatment, please contact Marketing.

Queen's communication material makes use of a controlled palette that consists of logo, fonts and colour.
All elements of the Queen's logo are essential in ensuring effective communication of the Queen's image. The coat of arms communicates the inherent history and tradition of Queen's, while the word “Queen's” creates a clear institutional link through the highly stylized personality of the Palatino typeface with the “swash-Q”. Finally, the word “University” ensures that all audiences clearly understand the educational setting of the institution. Together, these elements create a clear and distinguishable visual image for Queen's that is instantly recognizable.

In the development of these standards, the logo has been electronically mastered to allow for optimal reproduction quality in full colour and one-colour applications. Electronic files of the logo can be obtained through Queen's Marketing website at queensu.ca/identity.
THE QUEEN’S LOGO

The Queen's logo appears below. It is the primary element of the Queen's visual identity system and must appear on all official Queen's communications. It may not be modified in any way. The Queen's logo is the preferred visual representation for the university and will be provided in formats appropriate to usage needs.

The Queen's logo is comprised of two critical elements: the coat of arms and the Queen's wordmark.

While colour options are available, the Queen's logo in full colour is the preferred visual representation.
The coat of arms may be used independently of the Queen's wordmark only in limited ceremonial university communications.

The coat of arms is based on that of Edinburgh University, the institution after which Queen's itself was modelled. It consists of a gold shield with red edges, divided into four triangular compartments by a blue, diagonal St. Andrew's cross, which represents the university's Scottish origins (St. Andrew is the patron saint of Scotland). A golden book, symbolizing learning, sits open at the centre of the cross. In each of the four compartments is an emblem of the university's Canadian and international origins: a pine tree for Canada, a thistle for Scotland, a rose for England, and a shamrock for Ireland. The red colour of the border is a mark of stature, indicating that Queen's is younger than Edinburgh University. The border is decorated with eight gold crowns, symbolic of Queen Victoria and the university's Royal Charter. The whole shield is underlined by a banner with Queen's motto: Sapientia et Doctrina Stabilitas (wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times).

The coat of arms may be used independently of the Queen's wordmark only in ceremonial university communications. On their own, coats of arms are largely indistinguishable from one another and difficult to attribute to any particular institution. Hence, it is important to use the Queen's coat of arms as part of the official logo in all possible circumstances to ensure its proper identification with the university. Usage without the wordmark is restricted.

The wordmark is one of the most distinguishable visual identifiers of Queen's University. Developed in the early 1970s using the Palatino typeface, it was designed with the intention of creating a distinct personality for Queen's in the written word.

The Queen's wordmark is a consistent manner of presenting the name of the university to our audiences within the logo design. The wordmark features a distinctly drawn Q (“swash-Q”) and a lowered apostrophe, developed by Queen's Marketing. The word "University" is set in Palatino using all capital letters.

This wordmark is treated as a distinct graphic element as letter spacing and distinctly drawn features require a consistent application.

Use of the word “Queen’s” in the official Queen’s typeface is freely permitted in written communications.
PROPORTIONS

Maintaining consistency of graphic proportion when using the Queen's logo is important to maintaining the logo’s visual integrity. A standard proportional balance ensures that no matter what the overall size or application of the logo, it always appears correct and consistent.

The logo is designed to ensure that the width of the coat of arms is always 30 per cent of the entire width of the word “Queen’s” (3 x “x”). The lowest point of the coat of arms always rests above the top of the lower case letters in the word “Queen’s” by a factor of 5 per cent of the entire logo width (½ “x”). The coat of arms is centred in relation to the word “Queen’s”.

Please note that all electronic logo files have been prepared with the correct proportions for ease of use.

SIZE RESTRICTIONS

For printed materials, the Queen's logo mark must never be smaller than 1” wide. For digital use, the Queen's logo must never be smaller than 100 pixels wide. Reproduction of the logo in sizes smaller than this reduce the logo’s impact and make it unclear for general usage.
THE CLEAR ZONE

The Queen's logo has been designed to make a dignified and highly legible graphic statement. A minimum clear zone requirement serves to protect the integrity of the Queen's visual identity. No other type or graphic element may appear within the prescribed clear space.

In addition to the space created through the width and height of the logo, the clear zone includes a distance of “x” extending from all tangents of the logo as indicated below (where “x” represents the height of the lower case letters in the word Queen's). The area indicated by the dotted line – the clear zone – must be kept free of graphics, typography, competing backgrounds or the edge of a printed piece/computer screen.
LOGO COLOURS

The official colours to be used for reproducing the Queen's logo in Pantone, process or web-based applications are listed below. Use of these official colours are necessary when producing the logo in full colour.

For ease of use, logo files listed below have already been created using the required colours.

THE LOGO

SINGLE- OR TWO-COLOUR REPRODUCTION

Two-colour variations of the Queen’s logo are not available. In single or two-colour print jobs, the Queen’s logo should be reproduced in either Queen’s red, Queen’s blue or black. These versions of the Queen’s logos can be printed on light background colours, as long as the contrast is such that the logo maintains legibility. Because of this, the logo should not be printed in the Queen’s gold.

In single- or two-colour print jobs, it is permissible to use the logo set in the PMS colours as indicated at right.

NOTE: Queen’s gold is NOT an option for single- or two-colour print jobs.

On light background colours the black logo can be used. Contrast must be maintained.

REVERSE COLOUR REPRODUCTION

The Queen’s logo can be reversed out of black or another colour as long as the contrast is such that the logo maintains legibility.

Maintain contrast between logo and background
COLOUR APPLICATION (INCORRECT USAGE)

Colour provides a powerful means of visual recognition. When consistently applied, the Queen's colours reinforce and extend the desired institutional image. A number of colour arrangements do not convey the clean, professional image desired for the university. The examples shown below are typical and must be avoided. Undisciplined application of the Queen's logo and its acceptable colours serve to dissipate its integrity and endanger the effectiveness of these identity standards.

- Poor contrast between logo and background
- Poor contrast between logo and background
- When used in single colour, both coat of arms and wordmark must appear in the same colour.
- Two-colour logos are not permitted.
- Full-colour logo must use Queen's wordmark in official red only. No other colour is acceptable.
- No tinting or ghosting
- When used in single-colour, the Queen's logo may not be set in any colour other than as outlined on page 11.
- The Queen's logo should not be used in grayscale
DO-NOT-USE EXAMPLES

Building a consistent visual identity for Queen’s necessitates consistent usage of the logo across applications. While the logo is designed to be applied in a flexible way and accommodate most needs, it cannot be altered or re-designed to fit a given application. In addition, the “swash-Q” must only be used in the word “Queen’s” (in Palatino) and may not be used on its own or in combination with any other graphic, logo, type, word, or wordmark.

For guidance, some unacceptable modifications are outlined below.

Also see page 43 for a list of general trademark style requirements.
Placement

The Queen’s University logo is the core of our visual branding package. This brand mark is the key identifier for the university. Since 2001, it has been consistently, and must continue to be, located in the preferred placement in the upper right corner of all print publications as indicated in this guide. Respect must be given to the logo space ensuring that it remains highly visible.

The logo must be an element of every official Queen’s website. The recommended placement for the Queen’s logo on websites is as the last or next-to-last visible element on each page (i.e. in the footer area). In every instance, the logo must link to the queensu.ca homepage. (See page 41 for examples of logo placement for the web.)

Any exceptions must be approved by the Executive Director, University Marketing.
Preferred Placement of Queen’s Logo on Publication Front Covers

The Queen’s logo must appear on the front of all printed communications. The preferred position is in the upper right corner as shown.

The clear zone as outlined on page 9 should be used to establish the minimum distance between the logo and surrounding elements. Spaces shown are minimums. Margins may be increased to suit the design.
THE WORDMARK

The Queen's wordmark is one of the most distinguishable visual identifiers of Queen's University. Developed in the early 1970s using the Palatino typeface, it was designed with the intention of creating a distinct personality for Queen's in the written word.

The Queen's wordmark is a consistent manner of presenting the name of the university to our audiences within the logo design. The wordmark features a distinctly drawn Q (“swash-Q”) and a lowered apostrophe, developed by Queen's Marketing. The word “University” is set in Palatino using all capital letters.

This wordmark is treated as a distinct graphic element as letter spacing and distinctly drawn features require a consistent application. Use of the word “Queen’s” in the official Queen’s typeface is freely permitted.
THE WORDMARK CLEAR ZONE

The Queen's logo has been designed to make a dignified and highly legible graphic statement. A minimum clear zone requirement serves to protect the integrity of the Queen's visual identity. No other type or graphic element may appear within the prescribed clear space.

In addition to the space created through the width and height of the logo, the clear zone includes a distance of “x” extending from all tangents of the logo as indicated below (where “x” represents the height of the lower case letters in the word Queen’s). The area indicated by the dotted line – the clear zone – must be kept free of graphics, typography, competing backgrounds or the edge of a printed piece/computer screen (i.e. margins).
THE WORDMARK – APPLICATION

In special cases it is possible to use just the Queen’s wordmark. In those special cases, please contact Marketing for authorization.

In cases where quality reproduction of the Queen’s logo is impossible, the wordmark may be used in Pantone 187 red, black or reverse (white).

In all cases, Queen’s Marketing must be contacted to request this artwork.
Preferred Placement of Queen’s Logo on Publication Back Cover

The unit signature, as well as the address, should appear on the back of multipage publications in the lower third of the page.

The clear zone as outlined on page 17 should be used to establish the minimum distance between the wordmark and address as shown. Spaces shown are minimums. Margins may be increased to suit the design of each individual application.
THE QUEEN’S WEBMARK

Queen’s University

The Queen's webmark is to be included on every website that is owned and managed by Queen's faculties, departments, service units, and programs as the first visible element on each page.

THE UTILITY BAR

To support this requirement, web developers can include the Queen's utility bar. This customized Queen's web component contains Queen's wordmark (linking to the Queen's homepage), Queen's people and page search function, and login access to Queen's websites and portals.

Templates for the utility bar are designed in a selection of official Queen's colours and with instructions for both PHP and JavaScript. The utility bar is also designed and tested to comply with AODA standards for accessibility and is responsive to a variety of display sizes, including mobile devices.

QUEEN’S UNIVERSITY VISUAL IDENTITY GUIDE

QUEEN’S WEBMARK SPECIFICATIONS:

For those not making use of the utility bar inclusion file, specifications for including the Queen's webmark on its own are as follows:

Placement

■ It should be the first visible element on the page.

Image file

■ Use the files as supplied on the visual identity website.
■ The shape and proportion must be maintained.
■ Do not modify or create an alternate version.

Link and alt text

■ In every instance, it should link to queensu.ca
■ When including the Queen's webmark via a background image, “Queen's University” must be used as the actual link text (hidden accessibly via css)
■ When including the Queen's webmark via an <img> tag, “Queen's University” must be specified as the alt text

Minimum size

■ The wordmark should always be displayed at sizes such that the text is legible. At minimum, the wordmark should be displayed at 195 px wide.

White space

■ Maintain the white space around the image as specified above.
■ For mobile layouts (typically viewport widths <= 740 px), the amount of surrounding white space may be reduced; try to maintain at least 50% of the height of the lowercase letters in the Queen's webmark in these cases.

Contrast

■ Colour contrast ratio of 4.5:1 or higher must be maintained. See page 12 of the Visual Identity Guide for more on background images and contrast (see webaim.org/blog/wcag-2-0-and-link-colors/).
■ Avoid using colour combinations that cause perceptual problems for those with colour-blindness. For example, it may be difficult to distinguish between a red wordmark and a green background. (webaim.org/articles/visual/colorblind)
UNIT SIGNATURES

Unit signatures are reserved for print publications and electronic documents, with certain guidelines and restrictions on their use.

Unit Signatures are not to be used in lieu of the Queen’s logo for print and electronic communications or Queen’s webmark on websites or web applications.

The Queen’s wordmark may not be attached to any other type or graphic element other than the signatures described in the Visual Identity Guide.

As a general rule of thumb, it is always preferable to use the simplest (i.e. highest level) logo representation that will adequately communicate your identity as part of Queen’s. In most instances this will be the Queen’s logo. In no instance does the unit signature replace the Queen’s logo.

The name of major units within Queen’s University, such as faculties, schools, research centres and large administrative offices, may be added to the Queen’s wordmark as a unit signature. In all cases, the correct name of the unit must be used.

Major units within the university that contain many sub-units (such as schools or large administrative divisions) will need to develop and issue guidelines as to whether their sub-units should always use the large unit signature or whether all or some of their sub-units may use sub-unit signatures. As a general rule, it is preferable for sub-units to use the signature of their largest umbrella unit, but this needs to be addressed on an individual basis. If your unit needs a unit signature, you should contact Queen’s Marketing so that it may be created for your use. Visit the identity website at queensu.ca/identity for more information.

A unit signature is not a logo. The intended use is in conjunction with the Queen’s logo.

Artwork will be supplied as needed by Creative Services upon request for a nominal fee. Please contact Marketing at 613.533.2035.

UNIT SIGNATURES – COLOUR REPRODUCTION

The official colours to be used for reproducing the Queen’s wordmark in Pantone, process or web-based applications are listed on page 27.

Preferred treatment full-colour

Preferred treatment for unit signatures features the Queen’s wordmark in red with the unit name set in black, on a white or light colour background. The unit signature may also be reversed out of a colour background as long as the contrast is such the wordmark maintains legibility.

Single-colour reproduction

In single-colour print jobs, where only a single colour is available for printing, the unit signature may be reproduced in a single colour (black, or Queen’s blue, or Queen’s red) or reversed out of any single colour as long as the contrast is such that the wordmark maintains legibility. Please contact Marketing for approval.

The wordmark should not be printed in Queen’s gold.
UNIT SIGNATURES – THE CLEAR ZONE

The Queen’s wordmark has been designed to make a dignified and highly legible graphic statement. A minimum clear zone requirement serves to protect the integrity of the Queen’s visual identity. No other type or graphic element may appear within the prescribed clear space.

In addition to the space created through the width and height of the wordmark, the clear zone includes a distance of “x” extending from all tangents of the logo and unit signature as indicated below (where “x” represents the height of the lower case letters in the word Queen’s). The area indicated by the outer dotted line – the clear zone – must be kept free of graphics, typography, competing backgrounds or the edge of a printed piece/computer screen (i.e. margins).
UNIT SIGNATURES – SPECIFICATIONS

Unit signature files are created by starting with a Queen's wordmark. The height of the lower case letters in the word Queen's is used to establish the distance from the wordmark to the vertical line and from the vertical line to the unit name. The first line of the unit name aligns with the word Queen's. The "Faculty/School/Department of" line sits above and additional lines are set below, as shown in the sample below. In all cases, the vertical line aligns with the top and bottom of the entire unit signature.

The unit name is set in Myriad Pro Light font in capital letters and Faculty/School/Department is set in Myriad Pro Semibold font in all capital letters. Any secondary information (address, sub-units) should be placed left-aligned below the unit name at a distance equal to the x-height. This places the information just outside the signature's clear zone. The unit signature should generally be limited to one or two lines depending on length. Queen's Marketing will consider exceptions to these rules when necessary.

Please note that all electronic files have been prepared with the correct proportions for ease of use.

UNIT SIGNATURES – SIZE RESTRICTIONS

The minimum size required for unit signatures is such that the Queen's wordmark is 1" wide.
UNIT SIGNATURES – PLACEMENT

Preferred Placement of Unit Signatures on Publications

The Queen’s logo must appear on the front of all printed communications. The preferred position is in the upper right corner. The Queen’s logo, or a unit signature, as well as the address, should also appear on the back of multipage publications. The preferred position is in the lower left hand corner.

The clear zone (page 17) should be used to establish the minimum distance between the unit signature and surrounding elements. Margins may be increased to suit the design.

In instances where identification of the faculty, unit or department needs to be included on publication covers, signatures may be used and must follow the clear zone guidelines.

Fonts

Consistency of typeface in all Queen’s communications is important to the successful implementation of these visual identity standards.

The two official fonts used by Queen’s are Palatino Linotype and Myriad Pro. Alternative versions of these fonts are listed below. Palatino Linotype and Myriad Pro are complementary fonts and their use in publication headlines, body copy and other applications are strongly encouraged.

Palatino Linotype

abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz 1234567890

The official preferred font for all Queen’s publications. Predominantly used in body text but also used in all other manners of typesetting.

Myriad Pro

abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz 1234567890

Primarily used for headings, sidebars, captions and some body text.

Queen’s enQsu

Includes specially developed supplementary characters, based upon Palatino to create the unique “Queen’s”. It should only be used with text appearing in Palatino and only for the word “Queen’s”.

Zapf Humanist 601 Demi

abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz 1234567890

Also known as Optima Medium. Used for university signage.

Equivalent or Alternative Fonts

Palatino Linotype

Palatino, Palatino Nova, Book Antiqua

Myriad Pro

Myriad, Calibri, Lucida Sans, Corbel, Verdana

INSTITUTIONAL STATIONERY

In most instances, Queen’s stationery is a primary point of communication with various audiences. It is important that institutional stationery take on a consistent visual image in line with the Queen’s logo and official typefaces. Queen’s stationery bears consistent treatment of department, faculty/school/office, building name/address, telephone/fax number, and email address for ease of identification by external audiences. Specific stationery information is placed outside of the logo clear zone.

Stationery can be ordered online through Printing Services at queensu.ca/printing or by calling 613.533.2912.

PRESENTATION TEMPLATES

It is acknowledged that in many situations, members of the Queen’s community share the need to prepare professional presentations on behalf of various areas of the university, both academic and administrative. Often, presenters are left with little guidance and technical tools to make the preparation of professional presentations easy.

To facilitate convenient application of these standards in preparing presentations to both internal and external audiences, presentation templates have been created for use in Microsoft PowerPoint and Apple Keynote.

Templates are available online for you to download at queensu.ca/identity
JOB POSTING TEMPLATES

for Faculty, Staff and Senior Administration Recruitment

A series of templates are to be used for faculty, staff and senior administration job postings and advertising. Queen's Human Resources will coordinate the development of the design through their agency. There are b&w and colour templates for both local and national advertising.

If recruitment for the job posting is not facilitated through Human Resources, and is arranged through a search firm or an outside agency, please contact Director, University Marketing 613.533.3227 to access the appropriate design templates.

There is a specific template to be used when a search firm is involved in the hiring process. If an ad is being set up and designed by a search firm, it must follow the Visual Identity Guidelines. Please note that the preferred style for an advertising template that is designed by a search firm does not include the firm or agency’s logo, instead, a reference to the firm should appear in the closing paragraph to direct applicants to the proper parties. Should a search firm logo be deemed necessary there is a specific template outlining logo placement.
Below are examples of print ads using the Queen's logo and brand graphics. Contact University Marketing, 613.533.2035, for approval of logo placement outside of the preferred placement.

VEHICLE MARKINGS

The illustrations of vehicles below demonstrate logo placement and approximate sizes. In order to maintain consistency and quality, it is best to use decals or professional stencil applications when reproducing the logo on individual vehicles. Queen's Marketing is available to provide graphic assistance to meet individual vehicle-marking needs and to help ensure graphical consistency.

In all cases, it is important for Queen's University-owned vehicles to be appropriately marked for ease of identification and to maintain a professional institutional image. Individual departments or units are encouraged to follow the guidelines below.

No other logos can exist on vehicles.
WEB BANNERS, UTILITY BAR, AND SOCIAL MEDIA GRAPHICS

The examples of web banners, Queen’s webmarks and social media graphics below illustrate the necessary placement of the Queen’s logo and wordmark and preferred style for electronic platforms as they conform to legislated accessibility policies for the public sector. Contact Marketing at 613.533.2035 to order a custom designed banner or social media graphic for your digital communications.

TRADEMARK LICENSING POLICY

Queen’s University’s visual identity, marks, reputation and brand are important assets. Their use must be managed and controlled in order to protect the legal status and the reputation and image of the university. The name, Queen’s University, and the names, insignia, logos, seals, crests, designs, marks and other symbols associated with Queen’s University (“Queen’s marks”) are the exclusive property of Queen’s University.

All use of Queen’s marks is restricted and a license for use must be obtained. Please see website: queensu.ca/studentaffairs/trademark-licensing. This policy does not apply to internal communications material which is governed by the Visual Identity Standards. Please see website: queensu.ca/identity/guide

Athletics and Recreation, Alumni Relations and the School of Business trademarks are reserved for their use and may not be reproduced without special approval.

The university is committed to ensuring that articles using Queen’s marks are produced in a manner consistent with the strategic plan, values and mission of the university. In our efforts to achieve the above and to promote an ethically accountable campus, the university requires that all products using Queen’s marks must be created by an authorized licensee. This requirement applies to both internal and external promotions and/or sales. The list of the current licensees is available at queensu.ca/studentaffairs/trademark-licensing

The Office of the Vice-Provost and Dean of Student Affairs is responsible for the licensing and proper use of Queen’s marks only when associated with commercial promotion and sales. Those wishing to use the Queen’s University trademarks must submit a written request to the Office of the Vice-Provost and Dean of Student Affairs explaining the intended use. All artwork and the proposed uses of the Queen’s marks must be approved before production commences. Please see queensu.ca/studentaffairs/trademark-licensing

Licensees will charge a 7 per cent royalty fee for each product marked with a Queen’s mark unless they receive a waiver of royalties from the Office of the Vice-Provost and Dean of Student Affairs. Royalty exemptions may be approved under certain conditions. For more information please see: queensu.ca/studentaffairs/trademark-licensing.

Queen’s Marks: Standards of Use

Queen’s University’s visual identity, name, trademarks and brand should be used in good taste and appear only on high-quality approved products that are produced under legal and fair labour conditions. The Code of Conduct governing the licensees is found at queensu.ca/studentaffairs/trademark-licensing. Queen’s is a member of the Workers’ Rights Association.

- The university’s name, trademarks and brand should not be used in any way that will discriminate against any persons or groups based on age, ancestry, belief, colour, creed, disability, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or in any other way that would be a violation of the university’s values.
- The university’s name, trademarks and brand should not be associated with any activity, product or image that detracts from or tarnishes the good name, image and reputation of Queen’s University.
- Queen’s marks are not to be used with the name of a business, logo, in advertising services or on a product in a way that could indicate or imply an endorsement.
- The university reserves the right to decline products or art designs not in keeping with the standards described above.
- If the university marks are used in conjunction with another entity’s marks, approval must be granted from each entity.
TRADEMARK STYLE REQUIREMENTS

- Usage of the official Queen’s logo and wordmarks must follow the guidelines prescribed in the Queen’s Visual Identity Guide.

- Trademarks cannot be distorted. A distortion is considered to be anything other than the trademarks as registered.

- Substitutions of elements of a trademark are not permitted.

- The trademarks must be clear and distinct, presented in ample open space, separated from distracting elements and not dominated by other design elements.

- The trademarks must not be used as a design element, nor may they be overprinted or combined with other designs.

- The trademarks should not be placed at an angle, nor enclosed in a shape.

- The trademarks must not be printed on a visually-conflicting background, nor should they span two or more adjacent colour areas.

- Trademark artwork may be reduced or enlarged. The official Queen’s logo must work with established minimum size guidelines of one inch in width (see page 8).

- The names “Queen’s”, “Queen’s University” and “Tricolour” are trademarks regardless of font. For official use, they should be set in Palatino/Queen’s typeface.

- Proportional changes and photo distortion of the trademarks are not permitted.

- The trademarks must be reproduced with care: coarse screening, inferior mechanical reproduction, substandard processing or use of a mediocre original may result in loss of detail.

- Colour-printed reproductions of all trademarks are permitted only in the official Pantone colours (187 red, 295 blue, 124 gold) or their four-colour CMYK process equivalents.

- Electronic reproductions of all trademarks are permitted only in the colours as supplied on the Visual Identity website.

QUEEN’S UNIVERSITY SUB-BRANDS

There are three accepted sub-brands in the Queen’s University brand architecture: Queen’s Athletics and Recreation, Queen’s University Alumni Association and Queen’s Smith School of Business. There are defined standards for the relationship of the sub-brand identities to the Queen’s University identity, in both print applications and stationery applications.

For questions regarding sub-brand logo usage, please contact Marketing.
ATHLETICS & RECREATION

The new Athletics & Recreation logo is a promise; one that Queen's makes to all of its audiences – prospective students, current students, faculty, staff, alumni and friends. The logo reflects our proud past, our current strength and a bold future. The logo promises continued excellence and competitive spirit. It distinguishes Queen's athletics programs from its competitors. It is instantly recognizable and is readily associated with Queen's University.

The new logo retains the historical use of the letter “Q”, with a simplified, dynamic and fresh-looking treatment. Its forward tilt suggests progressive movement, ongoing aspiration and desire for success. Queen's Tricolour, the famed red, blue and gold combination, is clearly represented in the logo. Gold is the dominant colour. Red and blue are less prominent, but are no less important to represent the traditional elements of the brand.

The logo has been designed to bring all of the Athletics & Recreation programs together under a common identifiable logo, yet the architecture allows for distinctiveness of each of the teams, the recreation clubs and programs.

The look is bold, simple and uniquely “Queen's” in nature, reflecting our vision to be the leading athletics and recreation program in Canada.
