In September 2012, Queen’s banned the sale of plastic water bottles. Since then, many departments have worked to expand the network of water bottle fill stations on campus. To date, approximately 75 stations are in operation diverting 3.4 million bottles from circulation since 2012. Way to go Queen’s! (The locations of these fill stations are shown)